The Department of Geography is a space of deep interaction, love, affection and passion among all the students and teachers irrespective of subjects and semesters. Both the students and teachers in this department are very much compassionate about each other's feelings and attached heartily pivoting academic interests and beyond. This kind of relationships boost up the teaching-learning processes of this department even after passing out the college-level education. The department started walking at the beginning of the institution in the year 2005 with both honours and general degree course, though with least infrastructural facilities. But by the time, it has now been flourished to a well-equipped department having sufficient instrumental facilities as per the present syllabus and curriculum. The soil lab is a very well-equipped for collecting, preparing and testing of various types of soil-samples. The GIS lab, though new, is also well-equipped and well-maintained.

Teacher-Students Relationship: Emotional and cordial relationship between teachers and students is the spirit of our department. Teacher-students relationship is not only bounded in curriculum and syllabus, but also attached with the feelings of each and every student of our department. All the faculty members of Geography department are also cordially committed to each other and also with the students.
